BODY OF WOMAN FOUND IN RIVER, 80, EVICTED
The body of a woman of about 50 years was found today by Metropolitan Police Officer Joseph A. Bennett in the Charles river near the Boston end of the dam.

At Port Myer, Florida, a dog chased a kitten up a pine tree. The kitten, afraid to climb, was left aloft all day and all night. The dog laughed, then ate a bite until they brought that kitten down. And they did not eat while the kitten stayed in the tree, pitifully meowing for three days.

The husband, worried about the suffering of the kitten but about their hungry wives, called the fire department. The kitten was rescued, it and the three wives ate.

That is more hopeful than it sounds, proving what needs no proof, that the kindness of one big-toothed, low-browed savage can be civilized men.

On Christmas, the president of the United States will be devoting to New Jersey sent an airplane "roaring over five counties," distributing 250 pounds of rice, wheat, millet, hempseed and corn to feed wild birds, rabbits, etc.

During the winter, 8000 pounds more grain will be distributed, an intelligent, kindly action, no matter what the motive, for the same time, it will seem strange if angels scattered seed to keep us alive at Christmas. But the angels will not come and shoot us into the open season.

American farmers may make up their minds that they will win much, if anything, in France, and our industrialists may reach the same conclusion. The French, too intelligent to seem to keep us alive at Christmas, will not come and shoot us into the open season.

"BUY AMERICAN."
The slogan of the national campaign inaugurated today by the sale of newspapers throughout the country was hailed in Boston and New England with instantaneous enthusiasm.

In its local business men saw a reawakening of confidence and the nation's salvation from economic disaster.

"Buy America"—American products, home products. "Buy American" is the slogan of the foreign-made goods in the idea—and the slogan, with which the idea was hailed by business and industrial leaders in Boston and throughout the state.

The hearty cooperation of the Boston Chamber of Commerce was pledged in a statement issued by General Secretary M. D. Sawyer.

SAWYER ASKS LABEL LAW
Immediate action to support the campaign was taken in the Legislature. In order that consumers could be buying American and helping American industry, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware introduced a bill providing that every article manufactured in Massachusetts should be labeled, "Made in America."

A Letter to the Editor
From W. R. Hearst
San Simeon, Calif., December 25, 1932.

TO THE Editor of Boston Evening American: Please campaign vigorously for the following patriotic policies and try to express and crystallize popular sentiment for the information of the incoming administration and for the best benefit of the nation.

1—Buy American and spend American. See America first. Keep American money in America and provide employment for American citizens.

2—Encourage Pan-American reciprocity, consuming Pan-American raw materials and opening the markets of North and South America to our manufactured products, while providing work for our unemployed.

3—Develop our Merchant Marine to serve our trade in times of peace and supplement our navy in time of war. The building and manning of ships make jobs for the jobless.

4—Encourage American air fleets to cover our country and connect us more intimately with the other countries of North and South America. The more enterprise, the more work, and the more work, the more prosperity.

5—Encourage our railroads to make transcontinental extensions and transcontinental combinations and to co-operate with steamship lines to connect our industry with world markets. The more industry, the more employment, and the more employment, the more prosperity.

6—Complete east and west and also north and south transcontinental automobile highways, sixty feet wide, to encourage and accommodate "See America" traffic and to provide work and wages for the unemployed.

7—Complete federal flood control of Mississippi river and Colorado river and other rivers whose overflow is a menace to the lives and property of adjoining communities, thus benefiting the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

8—Complete inland waterways projects providing various sections of the country with water communication and the equivalent of sea coasts, thus knitting the nation together and providing work for the unemployed.

9—Complete all necessary developments of rivers and harbors, encouraging shipping and consequent commerce, providing work for the unemployed and stimulating the revival of prosperity.

10—Complete all possible water conservation and power development projects, increasing the wealth and resources of the nation and providing work for the unemployed.

The distribution of wealth in wages is the basis of all prosperity. Let the government inaugurate and vigorously prosecute during the period of this depression the campaign to buy in America, spend in America, see America, and keep American money in America. Then let every patriotic citizen follow the course the government inspiringly leads.

'DEATH CLIE' TO MISSING
GIRL IN NEWWOOD
Searchers Find Bundle of Blood-Stained Cloth

Two men were taken into custody and grilled today in the hunt for Helen Keras, nine, who vanished at noon on Christmas Day from her home in Norwood.

Detention of the two men, one of whom lives in the same street with the Keras family in Norwood, followed finding of a newspaper-wrapped bundle of blood-stained handkerchiefs and man's garment a short distance from the girl's home.

According to Sergt. Thomas Lydon of Norwood police, this afternoon, the solving of the case is not many hours away.

His declaration came after he and other police investigating the disappearance had questioned older sisters of the girl and had then brought in the two men.

Sergt. Lydon said that a longed 15-foot wall near where the blood-stained handkerchiefs were found would be cleaned out in belief that the missing girl might have been slain and her body dropped into the well and covered.

The girl, who was last seen shortly before noon on Sunday when, according to the older sister, she was leaving for Keras house. When she failed to return home in the late afternoon, a search was begun and her playmates were questioned.

Since then police, neighbors and Boy Scouts have been aiding in the search, and when no success had come today Capt. Charles T. Reardon assigned eight troopers to search the woods in Noron.

State Detective Joseph L. Fennell and Michael Fleming were assigned to search at the same time.

Brother of Slain Man Is Believed to Be Police Officer

Efforts to find a Boston brother and sister of John Sullivan, 46, who was mysteriously slain in Shoreham, Vt., failed today, although the brother is believed to be a member of the Boston police department.

A request from Vermont authorities was read at all police stations, but nobody stepped forward to claim relationship with the slain man. The sister is said to be a Mrs. Agnes Sibel.

Two men were under suspicion today in Vermont in connection with the killing, according to Det. Alty Wilbur Eno, who said Sullivan had experienced trouble with both of them in the past. They are being questioned.

Eno was awaiting a report from Dr. C. F. Whitney of the State Board of Health, who performed an autopsy. Sullivan was badly clawed and it is believed the death wound may have been a stab at the throat. At first the marks, which looked as if they had been made by teeth, were thought to have been the result of a fight with a wild animal.

CLOTHES MUST BE GIVEN AWAY

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Rear Admiral Joseph J. Chatham, postmaster-general of the Navy, informed Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts today that clothing and shoes to be allotted by the Navy Department to charitable organizations would be distributed to states on a basis of population.

Applications he said must be approved by the Governors of the states, who must certify that the articles sold to the charitable organization will be given away.

The articles to be disposed of, in accordance with a joint resolution passed by Congress last week, are: 15,000 heavy drawers to be sold at 25 cents each; 10,000 women's dresses, 25 cents each; 10,000 women's blouses, 25 cents each; 10,000 women's coats, 25 cents each; 10,000 women's shoes, 25 cents a pair; 10,000 women's hats, 25 cents a pair; and 10,000 heavy undergarments, 10 cents each.

She Admits Husband's Income Drop Under Fire

Warning that he would terminate the hearing if she did not stop weeping, answering an attorney's questions was given today in Probate court at Dedham by Judge Joseph R. McCool to Mrs. Edna J. Davis of Fuller St., Roslindale.

The warning finally brought from Mrs. Davis, suing her husband, Henry Davis, head of the Boston Press of Boston, for separate support, an admission that she knew his income had been cut down.

Mrs. Davis had declared that her expenses totaled $145 a month and that her allowance from her husband had been reduced periodically during the last two years. She denied that much of the money went for air fares.

Davis testified that his present income is $600 a month, or only half the amount he received two years ago. The separate support action was brought by his wife, he said, after he wrote her and asked that she change her apartment for one less expensive.

Judge McCool granted the separate support petition without fixing an amount. This will be set after a report is received on the condition of Davis' concern. The other also was granted custody of two children.

SEEK 14 MORE MINE VICTIMS

Moscow, U.S.S.R., Dec. 27 (AP)—With 40 workers in the Shafers mine known to have been killed, rescue squads labored today in the hope of saving 14 other men believed to have been trapped in the explosion Saturday.

After breaking the seal to the north entrance this morning a rescue crew reported another body found.

Twelve bodies were found Sunday and 27 more yesterday.

Amundsen's Hut Found North of Asia

London, Dec. 27—The Exchange Telegraph Agency reported that officials of the Soviet meteorological station at Cape Chelyuskin, in the extreme north of Asia, have discovered the hut once occupied by Roald Amundsen, the Norwegian explorer.

The dispatch said Amundsen's diary was found in the hut, and a sheet of notes written by his collaborator, Kassem.

Bandits Get $4000, Kidnap 2 in Store

Minneapolis, Dec. 27 (AP)—Two robbers took $4,000 and $5000 from a Minneapolis chain store today after slugging one store official with a pistol and kidnapping two others whom they compelled to open the safe before releasing them in St. Paul, 10 miles away. The robbers took their victims to St. Paul in a taxicab, giving them $150 for being "good fellows."

Customs Union Near in South America

Santiago, Chile, Dec. 27 (AP)—Chile's new President, Arturo Alessandri, shortly will issue a manifesto urging the formation of a Pan-American Customs Union, it was reported today.

The President also will advocate reduction of the credit and debit of the American-controlled nitrate combine. It was understood.

Palentine, Tex., Dec. 26 (AP)—Two men were killed when a boiler exploded at a well site in Palentine, 15 miles east of here, exploded.

Wedded Bliss in Six Easy Lessons

Indianapolis, Dec. 27 (AP)—Appalled by recent statistics showing that the Indiana marriage crop was becoming "too diversified," Butler University officials today announced a startling innovation in the 1933 college curriculum—a course on marriage.

It is the first American college offering such a course. The instructor will be Charles E. Metzger, 28-year-old attorney, divorce referee and Indiana University graduate, himself twice married.

Man Spends 10 Minutes in Lake

Auburn, Vt., Dec. 27 (AP)—Carl Bickman of this city holds one record that probably won't be broken during the existence of this generation. And his feat is unparalleled in the memory of older residents.

Christmas was on when for Bickman, he sought relief in Owassaw Lake outlet. Diving from the pier, he remained in the lake for ten minutes and then spent considerable time diving.

U. S. Cleans House as Hoover Leaves!

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—President Hoover's office at the White House was completely upset today. Desks, chairs and books were piled high.

In Hoover's absence on his fishing trip, the office was being painted for the first time since the Christmas fire two years ago.

Ask Pay Cut Refund to Xmas Postmen

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—A resolution asking that the 8 1/2 percent deducted from the pay of emergency postal workers, under provisions of the economy act, be returned to them, was introduced today by Rep. McCormack (D., Mass.).

Business Gain Seen With Cheaper Coal

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—With the price of coal now at or below pre-war levels, T. B. Davis, president of the Island Creek Coal Co., sees indications "that 1933 will see at least a moderate increase in business."

Cows and Horse Burn

Harrisville, R. L., Dec. 27 (AP)—Five cows, a calf and a horse were burned to death when a fire destroyed a large barn on the farm of Samuel Mello here early today. The cause of the fire could not be determined.

FRANCE ABLE TO SEEK TO ADOPT LEND AUSTRIA SLAYER'S BABY

Paris, Dec. 27 (INS)—Though France defaulted on its December war debt payment to the United States, the finance committee of the Chamber of Deputies today approved a loan to Austria of 100,000,000 schillings (about $14,000,000).

Henri Cheron, minister of finance, urged approval of the loan on the ground that France must honor her word, given in Lausanne, to participate in a $40,000,000 international loan to Austria.

MAN DYING IN MYSTERY FALL

Police of the Lagrange St. Station are investigating a mysterious accident about 3 o'clock this morning at the La Salle Hotel on Washington St., when Jack Clark, 27 years old, single, a traveling salesman, fell from the window of his room on the third floor to the street, a distance of 10 feet.

Picked up by a bell boy he was taken to City Hospital. Here it was found he was suffering from fractures of the skull and internal injuries. Little hope is held for his recovery.

Brockton Fair Building Is Fireswept

Brockton, Dec. 27. A fire, said by police to have been of suspicious origin, destroyed the main pavilion used to house prize-winning cows at the Brockton fair grounds early today and for a time threatened to destroy other buildings. The building was not occupied. The blaze could be seen for miles and Brockton police headquarters was swamped with telephone calls. Firemen were given a stubborn hour's battle by the blaze.

POLICE AT BIER SEEK SLAYER

Police detectives mingled with the mourners today as James Mahan, 26, of 8 Hunting St., East Cambridge, fatally stabbed Friday night, was buried from the Church of St. Francis of Assisi, East Cambridge.

Their duty was to watch for a possible appearance of Michael Potvin, 43, father of 10 children, of Morton St., Somerville, over whose daughter, Michaelina, 17, the killing is supposed to have occurred. Police have a warrant charging Potvin with murder.

Capital's No. 1 Handshaker Gets a Rest

Washington, Dec. 27. (AP)—For one man, at least, New Year's Day should be a day of rest.

He is J. W. Hunsfeld, a painter, who for six years has headed the line for the annual reception at the White House.

President and Mrs. Hoover, his year are in the South and the function at which up to 8000 persons shook hands with the President has been cancelled.

Two years ago Hunsfeld was injured at the White House for breakfast, but he refused so as to be No. 1 in the reception line.

R. F. C. RECORDS ARE ASKED

Washington, Dec. 27. (NBS)—Records of the Reconstruction Finance Corp. for the period from February to July, when they were first made public by months, were asked by Rep. Howard (D.) of Georgia, in a resolution introduced in the House today.

This period would cover the huge loss to Charles G. Dawes, bank, variously reported at $80,000,000 and $90,000,000.

The R. F. C. started to function in February.

2 Children Burned to Death in Westford Cottage

Westford, Dec. 27.—Two small children were burned to death and the parents and three sisters of one were seriously burned early today when fire destroyed the cottage home of Daniel Cole in the Graniteville section.

Aldrich Cole, 3, and Dorothy Milot, 10, were burned in the burning wreckage of the house as Cole and Mrs. Cole were carrying in early Mrs. Cole, 8, Lillian Cole, 7, and Claire Cole, 6. The Milot girl was a visitor at the Cole home.

Even as they were being rescued the three children suffered burns mainly because their parents rushed them through sheets of flame that blocked all exits.

Cole and his wife made valiant efforts to re-enter the burning building for the other children but received more burns for the attempt.

Police Chief John Sullivan commandeered the automobiles of several neighbors and ordered that the burned parents and children be taken to Ayer Community Hospital. The names of all five were placed on the danger list.

The fire had gained great headway before the crackling of flames and Mr. and Mrs. Cole. The

COLLINGS' CLUE DENIED HERE

Contrary clues to the slayers of Benjamin Collings, victim of pirates aboard his yacht in Long Island Sound Sept. 3, 1931, have all proved worthless, according to Dorchester relatives with whom the slayer's men's widow is spending the Christmas holidays.

One clue reported as "particularly promising" on the eve of Mrs. Collings' arrival in Boston was discounted by Judge William A. Kelly of Stamford, Ct., counsel for Mrs. Collings.

GARNER READY FOR SALES TAX STRUGGLE

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Speaker Garner told newspapermen today that if it were possible to pass a manufacturing sales tax to balance the budget, he would be ready to fight it. He said he would be ready to fight it in both the Senate and the House ways and means committee had plans for becoming a study of the governmental fiscal situation.

In the Senate, Sen. Borah, veteran chairman of the finance committee, said the sales tax is the only means that can be found to balance the budget.

Meanwhile, the House appropriations committee tackled the budgetary problem from another angle. Its chairman, Byrnes of Tennessee, appointed a subcommittee to see what regular annual appropriations could be looked up.

Senators said they would favor exemption of farm products as they come from the farmer in the application of the sales tax.

Garner said that before committing himself to any tax, if he were a member of the House ways and means committee, he would support any tax that would support any effort to make the federal government's income equal to its expenses.

FISH SWORD IS WORK OF ART

The swordsmen of Nippon Gladly would fish to you is only a parlor argument when Kenneth L. McLean, artist of Boston waterfront, gets through with it.

Polished and cut to the shape of the common or garden cut-throat blade, once the terror of the thrasher whale is affixed to a hull taken from an old Navy scow made by Bent and Buck, Boston's oldest article of another day.

On the blade are depicted scenes from the daily life of a scowman. Feeding, fighting with a thrasher whale and other events in his career. On the other side is a serpent winds its way along the blade. The rest of the sword is filled with eagles, American flags and shields and the whole is gaily painted.

LEE, HIGGINSON CORP. NOT SUE

The new Lee Higginson Corporation is not to be interfered with through a suit brought by Nathan Berkowitz against the old firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., it was declared today in a statement issued by the former company.

None of the assets of the old firm is held by the new corporation and none of its partners has any claim against it.

The new corporation is not affected in its dealings to acquire the statement assets, and the plaintiff, Berkowitz, through his counsel, is in agreement with this action.

Well, I'm glad I didn't lose those fish traps.

Said Henry Eagle, 70, of Princeton ave., Waltham, after he and his four would-be rescuers had been dragged, nearly frozen, from Hardy's pond, Waltham. Eagle had been fishing with the traps he is shown holding. The ice gave way and in he plunged. Garfield Burgess rushed to his rescue only to plunge in, too. Robert Ward, 18; his son, Earle, 26, and Frank Caliri, 23, were next to the rescue—and next into the water. Then firemen and police got them all out—Eagle still clutching his precious traps.

GARFIELD BURGESS

Turkey for Convicts as Jailers Eat Pork

Quincy, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—It was turkey for the prisoners and pork chop for the guards at Sing Sing Prison yesterday.

The approximately 200 prisoners, including 24 prisoners condemned to death, dined on 24 turkeys with all the trimmings, the state paying the bill. The keepers, however, are obliged to pay for their own meals. Officials pointed out that the state in buying wholesale quantities paid less per pound for the prisoners than each keeper had to pay for his chops.

HAPEY ON CHRISTMAS

Years ago the daughter of Mrs. Joseph Keras today as she held in her lap the Christmas toys with which the missing girl had been playing before she left the house. "Nellie wouldn't have gone away herself," the mother sobbed. "She is a happy girl, always laughing, and she was so happy all Christmas morning."

"All morning she played with her new dolls and with this bank, she got among her presents. She was going to save a lot of money in the bank, she said."

"She was playing with the other children for a while before she went to bed around 1 o'clock when Nellie went down."

"Oiga said, 'Where you going?' and Nellie laughed and said, 'What do you care?' She was always like that—laughing and joking."

"Nobody saw her after that. She just disappeared."

TWO YOUTHS QUESTIONED

The mother said her daughter, who will be 10 years old in January, was wearing a green coat with gray fur collar, red stockings and black shoes when she left the house. There were no footprints but blonde hair. The girl is stocky and large for her age, the mother also said.

While police were questioning neighbors on the same street, recall of them were, the mother left Norwood for Cambridge, saying she intended consulting a fortune teller in an effort to locate the missing girl.

TWO YOUTHS GRILLED

The youth whom police wish to question is a resident of the "Rialto" section of Norwood. Two other youths of sub-normality and from

Have You Seen This Little Girl?

Have you seen this little girl? She is Helen Keras, called Nellie by her family and playmates. At noon on Christmas Day she disappeared from her home in Norwood. Police today said she was turned away by a man next month but she is large for her age. She is blonde and had short hair. Her hair was a green coat with gray fur collar, red stockings and black shoes. If you see Nellie, or know where she is, communicate immediately with the City Police or the Boston Evening American at Liberty street.

This section were questioned by police yesterday. The third has not been located.

GROOMING GREET MANAGER AS SHOP OPENS

Two armed holdup men tied up the manager and held two customers at gunpoint today at Young's Novelty Shop, 31 State st., and escaped with between $40 and $50 from the cash register.

The pair, confronting Earl Fleishman, the manager, as he opened for the day. One of them knocked Fleishman to the floor and tied him up with heavy ribbon that was lying on a counter.

While the other was forcing the cash register, the safe was rifled but it contained no money.

With a parting kick at Fleishman, the pair fled in an automobile. As soon as they had left the customers untied the manager.

Thugs Get $20; Foiled by Roxbury Druggist

Two thugs who had taken $20 from the cash register today gave Allen Harris, Roxbury druggist, "the second" product of the week-end receipts or get plugged.

"I'm only the clerk, said the proprietor, who had a much larger sum hidden in the store, and gun pointed they ordered him through a trap door in the rear room of his store at 20 Blue Hill ave. Then they piled barrels on top of the door. Harris waited till the second round of shots was managed to push the door up. They were still there.

"Get down or get plugged," one bandit told him.

HIGHWAY BILLS TO PROVIDE RELIEF

Relief for cities and towns now overburdened by welfare expenditures is provided for in one of two bills filed by Rep. Roland D. Bagley of Ware in the Massachusetts House today.

Under the first bill, $5,000,000 would be taken from the state highway fund which, together with $4,000,000 contributed by cities and towns, would be used for local road repair.

Unemployed men hired on this work would receive two-thirds the rate now paid skilled road laborers, but could under the bill receive skilled laborers' wages after a month.

"Cities and towns have paid out over $10,000,000 in the past few months," said Bagley. "My bill will help relieve the burden of welfare expenditures, and also improve roads."

Severe's second bill calls for alternate bids on road construction, providing for hand built roads as well as those constructed by machine, with the provision that contracts be granted for hand built roads where feasible.

LILLIAN DUNCAN SPURNS RICHES, WEDS SURGEON

Miss Lillian Duncan, versatile Cambridge dancer and former child prodigy, figuratively kicked a Chilean millionaire out of her life to marry a Cincinnati surgeon whose skill enabled her to continue her dancing career after her legs had been injured in an automobile accident.

According to her mother, Mrs. Alexander Duncan, of Saville st., Cambridge, Lillian married Dr. Murray Winn, Cincinnati, at a secret ceremony on December 31, "somewhere in the Ozark mountains."

MET AFTER ACCIDENT

Lillian met Dr. Winn, according to Mrs. Duncan, just before Easter when she was playing with the "Bandwagon" in Cincinnati. A riding automobile, a crash, and Lillian was informally introduced to her future husband at his office. It was at this time that Miss Duncan was reported to have been engaged to Senor Ramon Segovia, millionaire sugar planter of Valparaiso.

Miss Duncan forgot all about the millionaire after the skilful ministrations of Dr. Winn put her on her feet again, and the pair kept up correspondence after the "Bandwagon" left Cincinnati. Miss Duncan was a brilliant student when she attended Cambridge High and Latin School, and she was valedictorian of her graduating class at the age of 16, in 1908. It was at this time that Miss Duncan was reported to have been engaged to Senor Ramon Segovia, millionaire sugar planter of Valparaiso.

PREACHES AND TEACHES

She also acted as instructor in the Braggiotti-Denihaw dancing school at that time, after having won a scholarship to the school in the previous year.

Miss Duncan was also a star athlete at a time when girls were first earning recognition in sports. She was New England 40-yard dash champion at the age of 14 and a swimmer of more than ordinary ability.

While Mrs. Duncan has not heard from her daughter since her marriage except for the telegram announcing it, she says she believes she will quit the stage for good, and settle down in Cincinnati, where Dr. Winn has an extensive practice.

WHAT'S MILLION TO LILLIAN?

One of the fanciest kickers on the stage, Lillian Duncan (indigenous to Cambridge), kicked a South American millionaire out of her life—just like that! What price gold in the face of love? And where Senor Segovia, the Valparaiso coffee planter, loses, a Cincinnati surgeon wins. He is Dr. Murray Winn, who first met the girl he married after she was injured in an auto accident in the city on the Ohio river hills. The ceremony was a secret one—somewhere in the Ozarks—on December 21.

HOW TO RECTIFY SANTA'S ERROR

A new and valuable service will be extended in all of Boston, by Houghton's from now until Saturday, Dec. 31. Gifts received that are found acceptable but do not fit may be exchanged for proper sizes whether purchased at Houghton's or elsewhere.

If the man of dignity and Napoleonic stature gets shirts or socks that puff his ego but swallow his pride, he can take them into Houghton's and match his size.

If a woman's vanity is flattered by a gift of bouffant slippers, size three when she wears size six, she can take them into Houghton's and match her feet.

Whenever your after Christmas gift problems are if they pertain to size, take them to this store of the willing spirit, and make those mistakes a success. If the gift cannot be duplicated at the store of similar nature will be offered.

The philanthropic gift exchange service will be in effect from now until Saturday, Dec. 31.

A Nervous Dyspeptic

And it is to be said that I
Must eat no more of hot mince pie,
And shun with terror, if you please,
A tempting dish of melted cheese?
Am I to live a few years more,
On every joy to close the door,
And take my fun from some old book
And be a nuisance to the cook?
Am I when offered beefsteak red
To ask a bowl of milk instead?
And, just to dodge a little pain,
Must I from well-cooked food refrain?
Must I, at home or journeying out,
Lug several kinds of pills about,
And join (to use the medic's slang)
The useless gastric juiceless gang?
Am I to be that chronic grouch
Who shawls his feet upon the couch
And whimpers, when he's ill at ease:
"Bicarbonate of soda, please!"
For years I've laughed, and may again,
At all the milk-and-crackers men,
But now I wonder am I due
To join that crowd, dyspeptic crew.

Steaming Toddlers Turn Time Backward

THE TWO OLD SPORTS dropped in on our Sunday evening. They had presents for the kids and a whole parcel of stories and reminiscences for Dad. After the children were in bed we lit a log fire, made something hot to warm their old bones and pulled the chairs up around the glowing embers. With the birch logs warming the outer man the hot toddlers warming the inner, the Two Old Sports soon were wrapped in a mantle of recollection. What is it about a log fire that awakens memories? We have yet to sit in its glow that thoughts and talk did not turn backward. The toddlers loosened the tongues of the Two Old Sports and soon they were off on a flood of reminiscences. Save for a spurring word here and there we sat silent and listened. This is what they said.

When Jack Fought Jim

"I saw Jimmy McLarin knock out Sammy Fuller the other night in New York," began the First Old Sport. "McLarin reminds me more of the old time ring men than does any other present boxer. He stands up straight, knows how to fight. When he can duck or slip a punch he never blocks. That leaves both hands free for hitting. In face and boxing stance he reminds me much of Jack McAuliffe."

"Jack McAuliffe—wasn't he a wonderful lightweight!" interjected the Second Old Sport. "Do you remember the 75-round battle between Jack and Jim Carney, the British lightweight champion down in the old barn at Rye Beach?"

"Do I remember it?" exclaimed the First Old Sport. "Do I remember it! Why it took place 45 years ago last month but it seems but yesterday. It wasn't 75 rounds. The toughs and gamblers pulled down the ring ropes and stopped the fight in the 7th round. I can see the whole scene right now. The two men were in the morning. The old barn at Rye Beach. In the murky light of the kerosene lanterns hung from the harness hooks McAuliffe and the Britisher stripped to the buff and fought until near dawn. The horses champing in the stalls never saw a more weird sight. I remember how old Bob Ray Boston fell down the stairs leading from the old hotel to the barn and broke his leg. But he wouldn't let a doctor even look at it until the fight was over."

George Dixon vs. Cal McCarthy

"I had some great fights in the old days," remarked the Second Old Sport. "I'll never forget the 70-round draw between George Dixon and Cal McCarthy up in the loft over the bank opposite old St. James Church on Harrison ave. All fights in those days were private fights and held on the quiet. A reporter tried to get in the window to see the Dixon-McCarthy fight by climbing up a water drain from the roof of an adjoining building. Some of the toughs were about to drop him from where he was hanging on a third-story window when Tom O'Rourke, Dixon's manager intervened and saved his life."

Amid the Incoming Tide

"I think the weirdest fight scene I ever saw," put in the First Old Sport, "was the battle between Jack Dempsey, the Nonpareil, and Johnny Regan, for the middleweight championship. On a bitter cold December morning the ring was pitched on the shores of Long Island Sound, off Huntington. The incoming tide engulfed the ring and soon the two men were knee deep in the rising water. Skated had to be pulled up the fourth round. All hands clambered aboard a tug boat and we sailed down the Sound to Sands Point where the ring again was pitched in the woods on the estate of Supreme Court Judge O'Gorman. Mike Donovan threw the towel into the ring to save Regan in the 45th round."

A Fighting Supreme Court Judge

"And I'll never forget what Judge O'Gorman said to the Irish carter of his estate the next day when he heard Dempsey and Regan had fought on his property," laughed the Second Old Sport. "The eminent jurist called the caretaker before him and snapped: 'Paddy, I hear there was a fight back in my woods yesterday morning. Now I want to tell you that if another fight takes place there you'll lose your job—unless you let me know in time for me to see it.'"

In Big Blizzard of '88

"Dempsey and Regan, battling knee deep in the incoming tide presented a wonderful picture," went on the Second Old Sport, "but I saw a fight scene once that was worthy of the brush of an old master. I wish a Bellows or a Luicks, or some one of these great artists who have painted fight scenes could have seen Philadelphia Jack Dougherty and Brooklyn John O'Brien fighting in the snow fort at Flaherty's on the last day of the Big Blizzard of '88. An open air dance platform had been cleared of snow which they piled in banks 20 feet high around it. The fight didn't start until after midnight. The only light was from torches stuck in the snow bank. O'Brien and Dougherty stripped around the waist and with horse blankets thrown over their shoulders between rounds to protect themselves from the cold, fought 43 rounds with the skin-tight gloves. As dawn grayed the Long Island skys, old man Flaherty, fearing the cops would arrive, invaded the ring with a sawed-off shotgun, two sons and a bulldog, and stopped the fight."

To the Days with the Bark On!

"The two men were on the embers and put on another birch log. We left the room to bat water for another toddy. And when we returned the First Old Sport proposed a toast: 'To the Good Old Days!' he said. And the Second Old Sport raised his glass and echoed: 'To the Days with the Bark On!'"

Max Schmeling Called Quitter by Sharkey

By RINGSIDE
Jack Sharkey stated today that Max Schmeling will never receive a bout with him while he is heavyweight champion of the world.

Sharkey branded the German as a "quitter" and said he would have to restrict himself to meeting hand-picked opponents. The champion admitted he had discussed the Schmeling situation with Jimmy Johnson, matchmaker of Madison Square Garden of New York, and that it had been decided to rule the German out as a heavyweight contender because of his refusal to sign for a June bout with the champion.

"Schmeling proved he was a quitter," said Sharkey, when he went down from a fair punch and yelled out in his first bout in New York in 1930. Only a quitter would care to win a title on a foul.

"In 1931 Schmeling was out to Cleveland and knocked out Young Stribling, who was a hot low ball at the time, rather than keep his promise to meet me in a return bout. He then tried to dodge me in 1932 and take on Mickey Walker instead.

"Public opinion forced the German to meet me. When he entered the ring, he knew I would lick him. I knew I could beat him as he is a quitter.

"When I won, Schmeling cried 'rubbers.' So I told him I would give him the first shot at my championship. Schmeling knew I was not a quitter and Schmeling's number like I had the number of Jim Maloney some years ago. Schmeling knew I was not a quitter and Schmeling's number like I had the number of Jim Maloney some years ago. Schmeling knew I was not a quitter and Schmeling's number like I had the number of Jim Maloney some years ago.

"I am under contract with the New York Garden to defend my championship on or before June 30, 1935. Under the terms of my contract, the Garden must name my opponent 90 days before the match.

"I shall meet the man named by the Garden. I have full confidence in my own ability to defeat any heavyweight in the world, and do not care who is picked to meet me by the Garden."

Sharkey is sailing for Bermuda with his Sharkey and a few friends on January 3. He will spend several weeks in the South. The champion, recently named for three weeks in a Boston gym, said he would not fight Schmeling in three months because the notch he was when he licked Schmeling was a wound he licked Schmeling.

At the time he was named by the Garden to fight Schmeling, Sharkey was in a bad way. He was suffering from a bad cold and was unable to fight. He was in a bad way. Canadiens Back in Stride Tackle Bruins Tonight

By BILL GRIMES
Despite the fact that they tied with Les Americans in last place in the International Division, Les Canadiens are still the greatest box office attractions in hockey.

And so one of the largest crowds of the season will flock to the Boston Garden tonight to watch the Flying Frenchmen battle the Bruins.

The Flying Frenchmen are on their first trip to the Garden. The fans have been waiting for them and it was not necessary to stage any streamer to develop interest in tonight's fight.

For the first time Les Canadiens have been traveling at a winning pace. In fact, over a stretch of five games, they have been as successful as the Bruins. The Flying Frenchmen have won three and tied one in their last five starts, which duplicated the record of the Bruins.

CANADIENS SLUMPED
Prior to the second week of this month, Les Canadiens lost four in a row and were responsible for most complaints and criticism.

In the games there is little difference between the Bruins and Les Canadiens. The Bruins won five, lost four and tied one, while the Canadiens won four, lost five and tied one. Yet, due to their success during November, the Bruins are four and one-half games out in front of the Canadiens.

The Bruins were forced to extend themselves to get a tie with the Senators in Ottawa. Neil Stewart turning the trick on an Eddie Shore man in the third period. Now that Christmas is over, the Bruins will settle down to hard work.

Manager Art Ross will start his giant line. Capt. Dit Clapper, Neil Stewart and Marty Barry against Aurel Joliat, Howie Morenz and Freddy Gagnon. The Bruins will also have the services of Maurice Thompson, Marty Burke, Silvio Mantha and George Haine. Top prices are reduced from $10 to $2. Seats will range from 50 cents to $2.

Max Dodging Sharkey Says Johnston

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Earnings disappointedly, James "Big Guy" Johnston today read Maximilian Adolph Schmeling out of the heavyweight party.

Madison Square Garden will no longer consider Schmeling a contender for the championship held by Jack Sharkey, Johnston said. Schmeling's refusal to sign for a June match with Max Baer has convinced the corporation Sharkey was right when he claimed Schmeling quit in their first fight.

"Now we know that Schmeling is suffering from the same malady which afflicted Dempsey when Harry Wills was mentioned and bothered Tunney when Sharkey cropped up," Johnston said.

"THINKS GOD WAS RIGHT."
"Sharkey always insisted Schmeling took the easy way out in 1930. I now realize Jack was right."

"Only a fighter can tell about such things. I know Dempsey was afraid to fight Wills because he would have stiffened Wills in a round or two, but at that time a team of mules couldn't have nudged him into a ring with Harry."

Tunney was the same way about Sharkey—never would fight him. He wasn't sure he could beat him.

SORRY FOR SHARKEY
"We feel we would be wasting our time selecting for Schmeling under the circumstances. He has made up his mind that he can't beat Sharkey, and he has an intention of letting old John outturn him again."

"The fellow I feel sorry for is Sharkey. They should him up more than they did us. They made him promise to give Schmeling a return match. If Jack won the title, and Jack won't let us see any one else for New. He wanted to keep him."

Johnston denied the Garden had communicated in regard to taking Schmeling's place against Sharkey in a championship fight. The "Big Guy" Johnston had announced that the latter was to be offered the Sharkey fight.

Philadelphia, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Philadelphia Record says Al Wittmer, former football and basketball coach at Princeton, is planning a team as a sanitarium.

After an illness of almost a year he suffered a nervous breakdown a few days ago and was taken to a hospital, the paper says. The Record quoted G. R. Murray, general manager of ability at Princeton, as the source of this story, but he declined, the paper said, to give the name of the hospital where Wittmer is a patient. "A year ago, my son was one of the country's outstanding college athletes," Murray said. "He was Princeton's football team, starting also on the baseball team."

Marty Barry and Vince List Knox Named New Head of U.S.L.T.A.

Montreal, Que., Dec. 27 (AP)—For the first time this season, a player from the American section has gained sole possession of the scoring lead in the National Hockey League.

Bill Cook, of the Rangers, today was setting the pace for the entire field in games up and including those of Sunday. He had reached the point behind the insertion of the name of Holmstrom, made president of the national association, as first vice-president, ahead of Joseph W. Ivy of Kansas City.

East to Trust Their Attack

San Francisco, Dec. 27 (AP)—The San Francisco 49ers today buckled down today to heavy work in preparation for the annual Shrine football game Jan. 2.

That the East will be victory through the air, and the West through the ground, has been a theme increasingly evident. At the Shrine game, University training quarters the Eastmen concentrated on passing.

Coach Orr, Hollingsberry and Dana Bille sent their Western charges to the Shrine game, the University of California's field at Berkeley. Four of the boys continued to go to kicking school, specializing on drop kicking.

SUICIDE ADMITS KILLING WOMAN OVER $50 BILL

St. Louis, Dec. 27 (AP)—Dr. Squire, formerly a doctor, admitted today that he had killed a woman because she would not pay him a bill for a dental operation.

Mrs. Elmer, mother of Conway Elmer, former editor of the Missouri Supreme Court, was slain in Dr. Squire's office Thursday. Her skull had been crushed by a dentist's chair.

After a brief trial, Dr. Squire, 42, a former physician, admitted today that he had killed the woman because she would not pay him a bill for a dental operation.

Dr. Squire, 42, a former physician, admitted today that he had killed the woman because she would not pay him a bill for a dental operation.

TALK OF TORMENTOR

The note contained several references to a man whose name, Dr. Squire wrote, was omitted because the man believed the dentist had refused to do a job in becoming a member of a club.

"He made threats he would torture me inch by inch," the note read. "He has been doing it by sending people to me to have work done who would pay a little down then when work was completed I got no more. Many times this happened."

The author of the note is believed to be a woman, after a few sentences the writer refers to the slaying of Mrs. Elmer.

"This woman, confessed (the man's name) sent her. Worried me for a year. When her teeth were four times paid a part at start, then said she did not want them. I must pay back her money and all her carfare."

FIND BILL FOR $50

"I became mad, choked her, then she said the man's name," the note read. "I became wild and know the real."

No further reference is made in the note to the slaying. Record found in the dentist's office showed a bill for $50 on Nov. 22. Dr. Squire had paid $10 on Nov. 23.

Dr. Squire recognized in the note that he had made his way to the woman's room and found a victim whose name he had not seen. "One Sunday night," he told of rushing on state bread and coffee found in the clubhouse, and sleeping on a cot in the room.

"I'll start for St. Louis as soon as I get home," he wrote. "The sun is nearly set. Nearly the end of a beautiful day. Also nearly the end of a worthless life."

MRS. HEARST IN SANTA ROLE

Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, with some of the 1500 children she entertained at her annual Christmas party in the New York Winter Garden yesterday. Crippled and needy youngsters from all over the city were treated to a program of movies, and then Mrs. Hearst presented each one with a doll or toy. (International News Photos.)

SLEW WIFE FOR MRS. HEARST IS OTHER WOMAN HOST TO NEEDY

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 27 (AP)—A New York Dec. 27 (AP)—Fifteen hundred children, poorer and more enthusiastic than any football throng had the time of their lives yesterday at the Winter Garden Theatre.

The occasion was Mrs. William Randolph Hearst's annual Christmas party for the needy and crippled children.

The children, who came from all sections of the city and from the Children Aid Society, the Catholic Charities, Association for the Aid of Crippled Children, the Henry Street Settlement, the crippled children's club and similar groups, saw a movie, program specially selected for them.

When it was over, each child received a doll.

Two buses from the Fifth Avenue Co. transported the crippled children to and from the theatre.

Listen, World By Elsie Robinson

"If I Were a Parent"

ARE YOU A PARENT? And you, at times, plenty peeved at the Younger Generation? Do you consider 'em a selfish, unreasonable bunch of brats? Then here's something that may give you pause.

It's what that same Younger Generation thinks of YOU.

Did you ever stop to consider that while you are peeling on chairs against the womanizer, he may be drawing up a few imitations against you? He is. And some of it is Robinson.

He is a far from complimentary as the Parent-Teacher Association of the South Pasadena, California, Junior High School discovered, when they sent out a questionnaire entitled, "IF I WERE A PARENT, HOW WOULD I TREAT MY CHILD?"

And did the children tell them? Listen to a few of the answers:

I WOULD NOT—

Forbid children to do things I used to do.

Harp on things that are bygones.

Swear in front of children.

Quarrel before children.

Act cross all the time.

Protest when I do not intend to keep my promise.

Brbe to get children to do things.

Embarrass children by discussing them or showing them off before guests.

Nag.

Keep saying "Don't!"

Require older children to take younger ones with them.

Permit older children to pick on younger children or be bossy.

Spill or leave one child.

Try to live children's lives for them.

"We did not do that in our day."

Call my son "sweetheart" or "darling."

Sleep, strike or spank my children.

RECOLLECTIONS of a Merry, Merry Christmas... On our way in town to hear the carol singers and her family were really very impressive with their belted, perfectly turned, with many more tunes than last year.

We peeked into the drawing-room just in time to see a bevy of happy children grouped around a huge snowball (made of cotton batting) which reached from the ceiling to the floor, pelting it with imitation snowballs... what fun, what shouts and screams of delight! Suddenly, like magic, the big snowball collapsed and there stood Old St. Nicholas himself with his pack ready to hand out Christmas presents to the little guests... it surprised US as much as the children and was quite the most original and clever idea we have ever seen at a children's Christmas party.

We stayed only long enough to watch the children gathered about tiny tables for a bountiful supper... then, off again to the Hill, where we made our first call at the charming old home in Lonsburg sq. of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Morrison... really delightful and charming host and hostess...

Hundreds Entertained

ALL OF THE LOVELY MORRISON daughters were home from college for the holidays and hundreds of the young groups came in after revelry to enjoy hot chocolate, scalloped oysters, champagne and flavored sandwiches and mince pies... there seemed to be an inexhaustible supply.

It was about 8:30 when the clear voices of the carollers of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs were heard outside so we all trooped out onto the front steps to listen... How good it was to hear "Silent Night," "O Come, O Come, A Little Town of Bethlehem," "Hark, the Herald Angels Sing," "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen," and many others as the air filled with the glad tidings of Christmas...

Bell Ringers Quite Impressive

THE CAROLLERS WERE INVITED in for coffee and sandwiches... and then the bell-ringers came along. Mrs. Arthur Shureliff and her family were really very impressive with their belted, perfectly turned, with many more tunes than last year.

Historical Lonsburg sq. was crowded with young and old who look forward each year to this New England observance of the Christmas season...

WE THOUGHT Dr. Malcolm Eaton a very attractive swan as he chatted with the lovely Elizabeth Morse who looked spotted net gown with jade green velvet cape was very becoming...

Merry Mary Morrison kept slipping in and out of the cellar window much to the amusement of all... it was the only way of ingress and egress, she said, in a crowd. The Morrison girls always enter into the spirit of play with a will.

It started to rain so we had to make our visit brief and get back to the car, which was parked miles away... a happy evening to be remembered.

Black Net Gown With Velvet Cope

Black velvet gown with velvet cope was very becoming... it was a clever play... so clever we did not understand it... there was just one line which we understood: it was "Let us be simple" and lot it came to pass and thus ended the third act.

We take it for granted, naturally, that we all familiar with plays by George Bernard Shaw and Luigi Pirandello... never mind don't allow a little thing like THAT to deter you from seeing this masterpiece.

Brilliant Audience at Premiere

IT WAS A BRILLIANT AUDIENCE who arrived early and waited late for the use of the first curtain at the Holts Theater last evening for another world premiere... this time "The Last Judgment."

It was a clever play... so clever we did not understand it... there was just one line which we understood: it was "Let us be simple" and lot it came to pass and thus ended the third act.

We take it for granted, naturally, that we all familiar with plays by George Bernard Shaw and Luigi Pirandello... never mind don't allow a little thing like THAT to deter you from seeing this masterpiece.

Mrs. J. Mott Hollowell who sat behind us (with several other curleup-bloods) was in gales of laughter... whether it was the play or the wit of Mrs. Wheeler who sat beside her we cannot at this writing tell.

Mrs. Wheeler was absorbed in the play when not absorbed in the remarks of Mr. Hollowell... now don't ask us which Mr. Hollowell we agree that the Hollowells should be introduced by their Christian names for the convenience of such as WE... tall and handsome is no identity, is it?

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick S. Whitwell thought the first act oppressively funny... after that we lost interest in them.

Parison Gown Trimmed With Ermine

IN THE FRONT ROW SAT Mrs. William Gass, resplendent in real white jet... she was chatting with Mrs. Malcolm Bradley French in a Parison gown trimmed with ermine tails... Ada and Doris Deane from Milton came to get a few points no doubt for "The Reluctant Dragon," the Junior League play which opens tonight... Ada is the villain... Richard Whorf's decision wouldn't improve the part...

We enjoyed the evening... "Ricky" Brown was in the audience and his comments are always a riot... our last judgment.

Chatty Notes of Social Circles

MR. JOHN JAY KNOX OF Harvard College has gone over to New York on a visit of some days and is staying at the Hotel New Yorker.

MR. AND MRS. ELIOT SPALDING of Boston will give a large dinner and theater party for a group of young friends and family members at the opening performance of "The Reluctant Dragon," the Junior League play which opens tonight... Ada is the villain... Richard Whorf's decision wouldn't improve the part...

MR. AND MRS. JOHN T. Williams with their daughter, Mrs. Ruth Williams, are giving a small dinner at their residence on New York street for a few days and is staying at the Hotel New Yorker.

MRS. FREDERICK WINTHROP will be going South shortly, leaving her daughter, Mrs. Katherine, at New York where the latter is now with friends. They will proceed to Etna, N. Y. to spend the remainder of the holidays. Mrs. Wintthrop is a promising championship tennis player, having held the coveted position of the girls' National Tennis champion.

Luncheon Is Given for Miss Mary Morse

Books--And a Number of Things

A luncheon takes place today at the Country Club, in Brookline, given by Mrs. Kate Stearns Page of Boston, for the presentation of her niece, Miss Mary Stearns Morse, debutante daughter of Mr. Arthur M. Morse and the late Mrs. Morse of Walnut st., Brookline.

Miss Morse receives her guests in a green silk gown with black hat and her aunt introduces the young lady in a gown of black and white.

The luncheon is set for 50 to 60 of her sister debutantes and college mates, who include Miss Nancy O'Leary, Miss Blanche Marshall, Miss Helen Nowell, who is at Vassar, and Miss Joann Palfray.

Miss Morse is one of those invited to provincial membership in the Junior League. She was graduated from the Winsor school last June, and is now a freshman at Smith.

Despite the depression, and as if to give the lie to all the prophecies that have been made, the English lecturers are beginning to come in our shores--indeed, have definitely arrived.

We predicted only a little while ago that this would be a bad year for them. The women's club were in a poor financial state, and most of our own American speakers had been warned by the various bureaus that it was well nigh impossible to obtain an audience for them. Those who were without therefore sought Hollywood in the interval, hoping against hope that there might be some occupation for them out there. Others sat at their typewriters, awaiting insurance companies, but indifferent to fiction and articles for the lesser magazines--anything to keep their hands off the door.

Put the foreign contingent were not to be deterred. America was still a land of plenty, a Canaan overflowing with milk and honey. Moreover, they knew us well, with our childhood love of British manners and English accents. Our theaters would scarcely survive were it not for the laudatory waves of London stars, and their insulating habit of suddenly waking up and addressing their numerous hordes of footlights as though we would not understand them unless they screamed them at us. No drawing-room comedy could possibly be put on in America unless some hope from overseas came to show us how inconceivably uncool a gentleman should be in a lady's house.

And the truth is that they got away with these assumptions. The London label is still desired here, though hordes of American actors of talent go walking our streets in search of engagements. One English actor, not long ago, in perfect seriousness, that he did not consider himself so much a Theatrical as a missionary.

Instantly the telephone rang, and the poet was at the telephone to suit with his old friend. He had been so busy since his arrival that he had not had time, he hurriedly explained, to reply to the first communication, and now, to his surprise, he was more free, would, by any means, be happy to send the editor for that luncheon and talk.

Loyal Citizens Have Solemn Duty to 'Buy American'—Home Industries And Home Labor Must Be Protected, National Prosperity Restored

ARE YOU A GOOD AMERICAN?

Have you your country's interests at heart? Are you moved by the distress of your fellow-citizens—twelve million of them unemployed—by the collapse of industry, the decline of trade, the spread of destitution, the halt of progress in your country?

If you are worthy of your birthright and your citizenship, you will recognize that a patriotic duty rests upon you—a plain and pressing duty.

AMERICANS MUST BUY AMERICAN GOODS—the products of American labor and American capital. —TO THE EXCLUSION of any other goods, of any other products, of any other services, of any other labor—whatever part of the world they proceed from and at whatever price they are offered.

"BUY AMERICAN" must become A NATIONAL SLOGAN. It must be accepted as a patriotic duty by all loyal Americans, rich and poor, old and young.

It is a policy of rescue and recovery—a program of defense and national salvation.

AMERICAN GOODS CANNOT BE PRODUCED UNLESS THEY ARE BOUGHT.

If the buying power of Americans is suffered to exhaust itself in the purchase of foreign goods, it is obviously diverted and withdrawn from the support of American trade and manufactures.

The extent to which this has been done in the past, AND NOTHING ELSE, has closed down many of our factories. If not stopped, it will close down many more, with the tragic sequel of casting countless workers out of employment, and depriving those already unemployed of all hope of regaining life-sustaining work.

This in turn means the progressive shrinkage of American buying power and the spread of business collapse, with the swiftness of contagion, from one industry to another.

THE American home market has carried the country through many a crisis.

It is the richest and biggest market in the world. If intelligently safeguarded and sensibly utilized, it will not only lift the United States out of the depression but it will lead the way to world recovery.

It is a current saying abroad that world prosperity will not return until America is prosperous again.

But we are not utilizing our home market with intelligence. We are not guarding it against invasion.

We are permitting our natural and inherent strength to be wastefully dispersed.

We are ignoring the fact that forty other nations have been unable to maintain their currencies on a parity with our own.

Their labor, paid in paper currency of diminished value, is relatively much cheaper than American labor.

With a lowering standard of living and a wage scale incredibly beneath our own, the countries of Europe and Asia are able to land their manufactured wares in the United States, regardless of the duties levied by our protective tariff, at prices with which American producers and dealers cannot compete.

THE number and variety of articles imported from abroad and sold in competition with domestic products are beyond the people's realization.

Rubber boots, rugs, pocket-knives, gloves, electric light bulbs, crockery, canes, silk goods, buttons, canned foods, garments of wool and cotton—almost everything of common and daily use—as well as basic commodities such as steel, lumber, wood-pulp and other raw materials, are brought into this country despite the existing tariff and sold in open and ruinous competition with American labor, materials and products.

Every American dollar spent for these importations is a dollar diverted from American industry and American labor.

It aggravates by just so much the distressful conditions that afflict the people of the United States.

It means an addition of just so much to the burden of relief resting upon public and private charity.

IT MEANS AN ADDITION TO THE NUMBER OF UNEMPLOYED. It deepens the depression. It delays recovery. It impairs the strength and dims the hopes of the nation.

IT MUST STOP.

THE flexible provisions of the present tariff law are not flexible enough to keep pace with forces operating to undermine us, such as the steadily depreciating currencies of both Asia and Europe, coupled with the growing effort to halt the purchase of our goods and exclude our exports.

THE DANGER MUST BE MET IN A SPIRIT OF PATRIOTIC UNITY BY THE AMERICAN PEOPLE THEMSELVES.

Let us take a leaf from England's course.

England often imitates us. We can afford in this case to pattern our policy upon that of England.

Confronted by growing unemployment, loss of foreign trade, the ever-present and constantly mounting dole, the impaired value of the pound, the dumping of cheap foreign goods in her home market, England decided to wait no longer for world conditions to right themselves.

She decided to concentrate upon her own dangers and her own problems, to summon her own inherent strength and to fall back upon English resources for the cure of English ills.

FIRST came the conference at Ottawa, with its far-reaching agreement by the Dominions and Great Britain to trade with themselves, and so far as possible to close the British market to non-British competitors.

This was nothing more nor less than an effort to gain for Great Britain something comparable to the advantageous position of the United States in its unrestricted and protected internal trade.

But this was not enough. England was confronted by precisely the conditions which the United States now faces from the invasion of her domestic market by cheap foreign goods.

There was no way to protect the English home market from the steady inflow of low-priced competing articles of Continental and foreign manufacture, except to invoke the patriotic spirit of Englishmen.

This was done without hesitation, and today, from one end of the Kingdom to the other, "Buy British" has become the rallying cry of a new determination and a rekindled self-confidence.

IT IS TIME FOR AMERICA TO DO LIKEWISE.

THE products of our manufacturers are superior to any in the world.

The skill of our craftsmen and artisans cannot be matched.

The variety and scope of our products—their beauty, utility and durability—cannot be equalled.

Let us buy them. Let us buy no other.

Let us with cheerful and voluntary union, bring this great aid to our troubled country, to its languishing commerce, to our suffering fellow-citizens whose protracted unemployment we have it thus in our power, in large measure, to end or relieve.

"BUY AMERICAN" IS THE CLEAR AND INESCAPABLE DUTY OF EACH ONE OF US IN THIS HOUR!

Hail Quincy! Ahoy!

A New Cruiser, a Bay State City, a Great Family

The newest American ship of war, a great cruiser, will be built at Quincy and will bear the name of that city.

The honor is bestowed in testimonial to the Secretary of the Navy, Charles Francis Adams, whose valorous forebears sprang from there.

How appropriate it is!

Quincy is the only city which has supplied two Presidents of the United States.

Singularly enough, they were the only father and son to be Presidents, John Adams and John Quincy Adams.

This same and very distinguished family gave to the country a great American diplomat, Charles Francis Adams, and two notable men of letters, Henry and Brooks Adams, in addition to the present Secretary of the Navy. Not forgetting Samuel Adams, the Father of the American Revolution.

The Adams family has been a very loyal and devotedly patriotic American family.

John Adams, as President, laid the groundwork of the American Navy. Under him, the Navy Department was created. The Boston Navy Yard was established and the naval establishment planned for the Atlantic Coast.

John Quincy Adams was that fervid American President who warned the Czar of Russia to yank his hirelings out of this country when they were attempting to prevail upon the United States to poke its head into the so-called Holy Alliance, which was the League of Nations of his time.

He is the same John Quincy Adams, who, after he had been defeated by Andrew Jackson, came so bravely to Old Hickory's defense and demanded with him that France not be allowed to wick out of the national debts she then owed the United States.

If you have the slightest doubt that these men possessed an abundance of courage, as well as unwavering loyalty to their country, you must bear in mind that they declared the rights of America to the world when America was a young, infirm and struggling Nation, not equipped with her wealth, strength and prestige of today.

It is to be observed, also, that the Quincy is to be a heavy, modern cruiser of the type required by the United States for protection of her long coast line. She is just the type that England told the United States we must not have in that Geneva Conference, when the European Nations would have run riot over us had it not been for the patriotic determination of another great son of Massachusetts and great American President, Calvin Coolidge.

The shipworkers of Quincy, in common with those of Bath and of the naval stations of Charlestown, Portsmouth, N. H., and Rhode Island, are among the most capable artisans in the world.

We can rely upon them not to build merely a Quincy of iron and steel but a Quincy into which they shall breathe the patriotic spirit of New England and America.

How Will He Escape?

New York Day by Day

Doors of Ambition

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—When night falls, New York throws open its doors to ambition. More than 100,000 students are enrolled in a half-hundred night schools or evening institutes. Many are men caught mid-life without professions as well as independent young wives with daytime jobs.

Here in studious cluster young men clutch at the golden opportunity. Too, there is a sprinkling of the aged who are 'asking for the first time the superior joys of learning. The curriculum includes everything from bookkeeping to Greek literature.

Such schools open at 8 o'clock when movies and billiard halls fill. They are usually in poorer districts where outside streets are filled with a vague excitement. Since the increase of unemployment, the rosters are bigger than ever. Instead of grooming, many jobs improve themselves.

Sometimes results are astounding. An usher in a Broadway movie saw a Spanish and commencing law in two years that he has been given a $10,000-a-year post in Madrid. A wash room boy at the Commodore has become a senior clerk in a law office.

Now and then a young wife's career is blocked by a baby carriage. But in a few months she returns and completes her course. There are times when a hard-working husband may require four years to master a technical trade. Yet his patience is often rewarded by a larger pay envelope.

Manhattan has an army of neurotics expecting death nightly. Mostly rich and retired, they luriculate in mansions on exclusive streets. They are a golden harvest for aristocratic M. D.'s with soothing voices. One venerable hypochondriac, who believes himself especially marked by the archangel has had a nurse at her Murray.

Hill bedside for eight years. Incidentally, she sleeps like the proverbial log.

I lived for brief space in a shabby fashionable boarding house on the fringe of Murray Hill. "Paying guests" dressed for dinner and talked about foxes they once chased. The house was a venerable brownstone escape into discreet poverty. A single back room for two with three moths totaled $16 a week. It housed perhaps the last arbiter of swilling caped manners and focus of pitiful social aspirations—the star boarder. He was a fussy, thrifty and retired English major, who topped his h's. Exiled in this wilderness of semi-poverty—well, I was developing my famous arm reach—he carried out his noble tradition of being a snob.

The Major was not without his facetious moment, however. There was a night when the entire boarding house remained sleepless through the neighborly blaste of an ambitious cornetist next door. At breakfast someone remarked: "Anyway, he seemed a finished musician." To which the Major gurgled: "If my aim is as accurate as my hope, he will be."

No one has scattered so many stars as this man of the times, or given so generously of his gifts as Gus Edwards. The list is too long to enumerate here. There is scarcely a benefit where Gus is not advancing a new step. He is not in need of charity by any means, but by all laws of economic compensation he should be enormously wealthy. He's far from that. And that's dear old Broadway.

Post card filiation: "Sometimes I wish your name was Odo so I could call you my palindromic. (It's all right. I looked it up.) And if she's trying to make me feel ugly, she's a huge success." (Copyright, 1932, for the Boston Evening American.)
